FORUM OVERVIEW

Each year, the Canadian Academy of Health Sciences (CAHS) hosts an annual Forum bringing together CAHS Fellows and interdisciplinary leaders to share their expertise. The series, now in its 19th year, focuses on important and emerging new areas of health sciences research and practice.

CAHS Fellows are world-renowned leaders and innovators who have a history of outstanding performance in academic health sciences in Canada. The Forum is an opportunity to provide insight and drive change and improvement for the health of Canadians.

PROGRAM

The 2024 Forum “Toward Climate Resilient, Low Carbon Sustainable Health Systems” will bring together leading scientists, educators, practitioners, and leaders to explore this complex health challenge. Through keynote presentations, panel discussions and facilitated breakout sessions with internationally recognized leaders in the fields of climate change, health, and sustainable care, participants will gain insight into the state of the evidence base, and deliberate strategic and actionable solutions.

Toward Climate Resilient, Low Carbon Sustainable Healthy Systems

The realities of climate change are being felt today in Canada and globally, with implications for health, health equity and health systems. Health care, and the life science industries that support it, are resource intensive and highly polluting, and contribute significantly to climate change. At the same time, health outcomes and safe and effective health care are threatened by growing climate shocks and stresses. Few sectors face as grave a risk from climate change, or as great an opportunity to benefit from climate and sustainability action, including through practice change, policy development, research and innovation.
